

SUMMER CAMPS – 2013

We at Vivartana welcome you to the world of change! Thank you for choosing Vivartana for your child. We at Vivatana believe that the world we live in today, transformation of self / humanity might be our only real hope for survival. Hence our camps are not just adventure or summer camps but opportunities for transformation and learning.

We would like to share few things before we embark on this journey together.

Program:

The child will go through varied experiences on the program, resulting from various activities. The instructors on the program are trained facilitators, who will help transform these experiences into learnings for the child. Every day the child will spend time reflecting on the experiences and connecting it to learnings about self. There will be a journal given to every child, which the child will write during the reflection time. He will carry this journal and will have the opportunity to look back on the program, the experience and learnings.

The program would include adventure activities like rock climbing, trekking, rappelling, etc, which would push the child physically and mentally.

The outdoors is a very dynamic environment and the child may have to face hot, wet, windy environment during the camp. The outdoors also gives us an opportunity to see reptiles, insects or animals in their natural habitat. We would create awareness on how to deal with the natural inhabitants.

The child will have to share a tent / dormitory with other fellow campers. Utmost hygiene is maintained when it comes to food, water, accommodation and toilets.

Instructors:

The instructors supervising and running the program are qualified professionals from the outdoors. They are experts in running these kinds of camps in the outdoors. Most of our instructors have been working with children in the outdoors for many years now. The instructor to child ratio will be 1: 6. All programs will have female instructors.

Safety:

Safety of your child is the first item on our agenda. Hence, there is no compromise when it comes to the equipments or the resources that are used for the camps. We orient our instructors to the best practices in safety expected in the outdoor programs.

Welcome aboard!
